

TONGUE TIED

Number of students: Minimum of 2

Have two people come up on stage, each one representing their own team. If you have a projector & screen, you will flash a prompt on the screen (something like: shampoo brand, Muppet Baby, Disney Princess, etc.) and whoever gives a correct answer to the text on the screen before their opponent, will get a point. Once someone says a correct answer, immediately click to the next word on the screen. As soon as someone says a correct answer for that, immediately click to the next screen and so on until you either run out of prompts or the time is up (30-60 seconds should work well). Have someone keeping track of score and whoever gets the most correct during that time, wins for their team.

Here are some good prompts: Shampoo Brand, Muppet Baby, Disney Princess, Professional Athlete, Animal Sound, Brand of Technology, Car Brand, a Sport, etc.

If you don't have a screen and a projector, you could write out the clues on paper, stand in front of the two students and quickly go from one paper to the next.
